

Under GDPR we need to give members a clear explanation of why we are collecting their data. This means we must provide clarity on what we will use the information for and, having done that we cannot use it for any other purposes without their consent. We have to tell them of any third parties that we intend to share the data with. Third parties could include the RYA, the local authority and any sponsors who might want to use the data for marketing purposes.

The bottom line is that we are required to tell members whose data we are collecting why we need it and what we will use it for and we have to give them the option of accepting or declining the use of their data. We also need to tell them how long we will keep it – ie a period after their membership expires. All of this information needs to be included in the privacy statement, which must be available to members.

We need to include the following on membership forms:-
